Overview

Trip Introduction

Royal Siklish Trek 12 days is a popular trekking destination in Annapurna region. This is trek to an area visited frequently by westerners to one of the largest gurung villages in west Nepal. The Siklish trek starts with a drive from Pokhara to Lampata and passes through Ghale Gaun and over the pass to Parje and Siklis – the largest Gurung settlements. From Siklish, the route turns east and stays along the ridge through Kalikathan and Shyaklung with a final night at Chisopani before descending to Pokhara via Rupa and Begnas lakes. This trekking probes an uncrowded corner of The Annapurna Conservation Area under the shadows of Lamjung Himal and Annapurna II and IV. Annapurna Base Camp Trek

This fabulous camping trek takes about a week, starting at Beganas Tal (Lake) and heading north to the Madi Khola, then following the river's west bank up to a well-preserved Siklish (1,980 m), Nepal's biggest Gurung village.

From here we strike westwards over the thickly forested ridge that separates the Madi and Seti Khola drainage's and then descend via Ghachok, another Gurung settlement. , Annapurna Base Camp 7 Days, Annapurna Short View Trek 4 Days, Poon Hill 3 Days Short Trek.
